Transcript for slide 3.

In a chained behavior you start out with the presentation of an S-Dee, a discriminative stimulus. This is the target stimulus which causes a response to occur. This is followed by a consequence which is reinforcing. This then becomes the new S-Dee which causes the next response to occur which is followed by a reinforcer and so on until all steps in the chained have occurred.